Dear Jackie:

It was great to meet you and we enjoyed your company very much.

I've assembled a few menus from the past, a review by Chef Louis, a review by Donna Lee, and a poem Ren Cheng sent me that your readers might enjoy.

Again, please make room in your schedule next time you are near by to come visit us.

Regards,

Dear Harry & Helena:

Here is a wonderful and fitting piece of poem commemorating the wonderful party. Read this piece 20 years ago, came to my mind after dinner for good reason. (Read from left to right please)

擲子臨呼黃牙冷風
 腸只客入牙筋熱晴

Ode for Chinese Banquet

Eyes focused on dinner table all the time.

Take in the cold, the hot, the meat & fish with one clean swoop.

Chopsticks fly back and forth like shooting arrows.

Sharp yellow teeth chop through delicacies like hot knife through butter.

How would I ask someone to fill my cup with my mouth full?

It is best to play deaf, just keep eating.

Must have loosened my belt a few times.

How could I thank my wonderful host enough for stuffing me like a sausage.
